I love Chief Bell. His response to the question on if the emergency powers had any impact is absolutely perfect.

We should echo it without comment but it is very helpful

Reporter: Hi there, ----- CTV National News. My first question is did police use any of the powers confirmed under the emergencies act to make any arrests today or did you use the existing law under the Ontario state of emergency. Chief Steve Bell: The three levels of government that have come together to support our efforts in this has let us have the success we're starting to see right now. The emergency measures act, the provincial emergency act, as well as the city of Ottawa emergency an injunction that has been provided, has created the ability for us to use powers and use new and existing powers to be able to properly deal with the demonstration to ultimately bring it to an end, without the authorities that have been provided to us
